

A PROPHECY,

Said to be Written three hundred
Years ago, for this Year ; lately found in a Chest, hid in the Wall behind the Altar in the Temple-Church.

Ἐν χρόνῳ Σωλῆκας αχωρ.

Regem inter Populūque diu de crimine Chartæ,
Lis erit, eventūque Urbs malè tuta timet :
Scindentur Varii, studia in contraria, Patres,
Rex propriâ semet Iudice lite cadet.
Vinci dum voluit, potuit cum vincere, Patrem
Rex Patriæ, Regem se probat esse sui.

Hæc est Billa vera & Originalis Copia.

Rex erit, an Populus Dominus mage, Nomine Chartæ,
Lis est : Eventum Pars malefida timet :
Hinc Variæ Partes studia in contraria currunt,
Arbitrio credunt cedere cuncta suo :
Rex tamen invictus dum vult frænare superbos,
Et Patriæ, & Regem se probat esse sui.

The Interpretation of Billa vera.

THe Question lyes, is Charles or Rabble King ?
Charter retriev'd, or lost, will speak the thing ;
Mean while True-Protestants Dissent and Vary,
Owning nought, but ~~the~~ own will, Arbitrary :
Yet Cæsar stoops not : Ergo, Rebels yield,
We fear no Flails, since Cæsar is our Shield.

LONDON, Printed for S. Carr, 1682.